A YOUNG BLOOD.

What It Costs to Cut a Dash, and How He Does It.

Boxing, Fencing, Shooting, Yachting and Riding a Few of His Accomplishments—A Very Busy and Expensive Life.

N. Y. Journal.

The rich "young blood" of to-day is not the nimble-skinned which people generally take him to be. He must possess certain qualifications to enable him to take equal rank with his fellow. He must learn to box, shoot, swim, hunt, to sail his yacht, to know a good picture from a bad one, in brief, to conduct himself as an intelligent gentleman, if not as a highly educated one. "I have some pupils," said Billy Madden, "who come to me as early as 7 o'clock to take their morning lesson in sparring—young fellows, who give and take their hard knocks with the greatest good humor. And the number is increasing. I consider Fred Goblet, George Gould, Jim Travers and men of that stamp quite able to take care of themselves in a crowd. You see boxing requires a large amount of self-control, and although I might naturally be expected to favor the sport, I can honestly assure you that it's the best kind of respect for taking the caddish element out of a man. Pupils of mine have often gone home safe and sound with a smile. Yes, men whom, to tell you the truth, you wouldn't think had strength enough to hurt a fly. How much does it cost? Well, to make a good boxer it requires three months steady training, and that will eat up $200. Well, to make a dash it requires an average lesson.

Now King George Anticipated.

Youth's Companion.

George III. was not unfrequently resto under the management of his great prime minister, William Pitt. When Dr. Moore, the archbishop of Canterbury, died, the King, knowing that Pitt would present Bishop Tomlinson for the vacant seat, resolved to sail a march upon the prime minister, and appoint a man of his (the King's) own choice.

When Archbishop Moore died, Mansfield was bishop of Norwich, and also dean of Windsor. He was at that moment residing at his deanery, and was entertaining a party of friends at dinner. In the middle of the dinner the butler came up to him with an excited face.

"I beg pardon, my lord, a gentleman wishes to see your lordship directly, but he won't give his name."

"Nonsense!" said the bishop; "I can't come now, of course."

"The King himself says it is very important, my lord," said the butler. "Indeed, my lord, he would not disturb you."

"Well," said the bishop, somewhat crossly, "I will see him." And he did, in a few minutes till he had a full dinner.

"I beg pardon, my lord," said the butler, persistently, and with some confidence, "but you won't give his name."

"The King himself says it is very important," said the butler, "my lord, indeed, my lord, he would not disturb you."

THE HIGH-LICENSE BILL.

The Question Locally Considered—Declarator Settled.

As is well known, the House has passed the Harper high-license bill by a vote of 79 to 55, just 16 not being present to vote. The Democrats, with a few exceptions, were the earnest champions of the low-license fight against the measure which will soon become a law, as it will surely pass the Senate. This high-license bill fixes whisky license at not less than $500, and beer license at $150, with penalties for the beer vendors who offer to sell whisky. This is a uniform measure that applies to all parts of the state, the country as well as the cities and villages, but the local option law permits the ruling powers of cities and villages to raise the license above these figures as high as they may choose, or to omit prohibition if they desire.

IN DECATUR the adoption of the bill is generally received with favor by not only prohibitionists but liberal men and the more responsible saloon-keepers as well. The license in Decatur has been "high"—$500—for nearly 10 years, and dealers here are not affected by the measure; but in Springfield, Chicago and the larger cities there will be a rumptus of some magnitude, because many of the small retail houses will have to close up. The effect of the bill will be to weed out irresponsible and reckless dealers and place the business in the hands of men who will endeavor to obey the laws, and if they fail, will not shirk away, but stand their ground and pay the penalties indicated whatever they may be. Our people generally command the measure and state that it is a step in the right direction. Of course any city, town or village, that wishes to elevate the license to $1,000, $2,000, or any sum above $500, can do so, but they cannot make the license lower than $500.

5223 for a Driving Horse.

Yesterday Mr. W. H. Ennis paid Mr. W. S. Souther, the jeweler, $225 for his handsome "Danville Boy" driving horse, and last night the same was shipped to Mr. Ennis' summer home at Deal Beach, New Jersey. Mr. Ennis took a fancy to his purchase on sight, and after driving him about for a day, a couple of hours he returned and cheerfully plunked down the cash. The animal was a half-brother to Bert, Hardy's "Black Dan," recently sold to Mr. Steward, of Lafayette, Ind., for $200, and was one of the best family mares in Decatur.

THE NEW TIME CARD.

The new time-card on the Wabash road, which went into effect on Sunday, seriously affects the interests of Decatur hotels and merchants, as night visitors to the city will be less numerous in future. The cannon-ball train from the east—Bement, Monticello and other points along the line of the road—used to bring many storekeepers to Decatur in the evening; but as there is now no train returning east in the morning as heretofore, the visitors find it much less convenient to come here to make purchases and spend the night. The change is a bad move for Decatur in many respects, and we hope the railway management will find it to their interest to put on the discontinued trains as early as possible. The passenger trains going east to Chicago and Toledo now leave Decatur at 11:40 a. m. to Chicago and 11:55 a. m. to Toledo; at night 11:15 to Chicago and 11:40 to Toledo. Going west the first train out is at 3:40 a. m. over the main line and to St. Louis; the next the Decatur accommodation at 6:55 a. m. to Jacksonville, returning to Decatur at 7 p. m. The afternoon trains leave at 3:45 as heretofore.

HOW TO ACT.

Sergeant John P. Finley, signal service officer at Kansas City, Mo., has published in a pamphlet on tornadoes some useful directions concerning the course to be taken to escape the dangers of these terrible forces. The inhabitant of a tornado frequented district must be watchful in the season of visitations, for he can never know when the destruction will come upon him. On the first sign of the approaching vortex he must run, always to the north, unless by going in that direction he will have to cross the entire path of the storm. If he is nearer to the southern edge than to the east, he may go south, bearing slightly to the east; but in no event should he ever run directly to the east or northeast.
